

The People's Press.

SALEM, N. C.

THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1880.

(Entered as second-class matter at the Post Office at Salem, N. C.)

THE PEOPLE'S PRESS FOR 1880.

$1.50 A YEAR.

The Press entered its twenty-eighth (28th) volume on January 1st, 1880.

Now is the time to subscribe. This year will be an exciting one in the politics of the country, and it will be our endeavor to make the year more interesting and entertaining than ever.

If sufficient encouragement be received, various improvements will be made.

Persons wishing to act as Agents will hear something to their advantage, if they write us at once.

Send for instructions and terms.

L. V. & E. T. BLUM,

Salem, N. C., Jan. 1, 1880.

NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,

WINFIELD SCOTT HANCOCK,
of Pennsylvania.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
WILLIAM H. ENGLISH,
of Indiana.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR—Thomas J. Jarvis.
FOR LIEUT. GOV.—James L. Robinson.
FOR SECRETARY OF STATE—Wm. L. Saunders.
FOR ATTORNEY GEN'L—Thos. S. Kenan.
FOR STATE TREAS'R.—John M. Worth.
FOR AUDITOR—W. P. Roberts.

FOR SUPER. PUBLIC INSTRUCTION—J. C. Scarborough.

ELECTORS FOR THE STATE AT LARGE—Jas. Madison Leach and Fab. H. Busbee.

Seventh District Congressional Convention.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee of the Seventh District held at Statesville on the 8th of June, a Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress was called to meet in YADKINVILLE on THURSDAY, the 5th of August.

The Press Association met at Asheville on Wednesday last. Some seventy editors were present. Dorsey Battle was re-elected President. Vice-Presidents C. B. Green, J. W. Goslen and C. B. Cree.

Some of the Republicans are asking "what has become of the Fraud issue." They will find it to be the ghost that will haunt the party during the summer and fall. Their political high priests cannot satisfactorily explain the matter, and the startling development that will come up during the next five months, will satisfy the Republicans that the frauds can not be so easily accounted for. The Statesville Landmark says:

"You will find out in the next 5 months that it is an issue of this campaign, represented in the person of James A. Garfield, who was one of the eight who voted first, last and all the time to subvert the will of the American people in 1877. Oh! don't you be uneasy. You will find out what has become of the fraud issue, and to your sorrow."

News Brevities.

The new law permitting persons to deal in tobacco at the rate of $200 per pound a year by paying a special tax of five dollars instead of twenty-five dollars, will go into effect at once.

Counterfeiting has reached such a state of perfection that the Treasury authorities are in despair.

James McGinnis died in Wilkes county on the 20th ult., in the 103rd year of his age.

From Great Bend, in Kansas, to the state's west line, Kansas is being abandoned by manufacturers. There has been no rain for ten or eleven months.

In many cases the Arkansas river is over dry, and sheep and lambs are dying for want of food.

Enormous shipments of grain, still going on from the West.

It is estimated that about $50,000,000 will be spent in Europe by Americans this year, to the amount of $1,000,000.

Gov. Jarvis has ordered a special term of Superior Court for Rowan county, beginning on the 9th of August. Judge McCoy will preside.

Rev. James Jamison, of the Methodist church, died in Mecklenburg county, Va., and was buried in Danville on the 28th.

John A. Suter, the distinguished California pioneer, was buried on Thursday, June 24th, at Litch, Pa.

A Committee of dispatch, sent by the family of the late Mr. Edward Alshuler and Van, and the inhabitants are flying to Russia territory. Ten thousand persons, chiefly Kurds, are reported to have perished from hunger.

Political.

Appeals to the Republican office holders have been circulated since April last. Recently every postmaster in the United States has received a blank to fill up his voluntary contribution to the campaign fund. The Campaign Committee is now engaged in forwarding a second installment of its circulars, and the amount desired and expected is fixed at two per cent. of the salary paid to the recipient. Thus a $1,000 postmaster or clerk is notified that he must pony up $20 or expect to be spotted. The committee think now they may elicit something substantial.

Archibald H. Henderson, Esq., son of the late Judge Archibald Henderson, and father of John S. Henderson, Esq., died at Salisbury on Monday last.

Gen. Theophilus H. Holmes, well known as an old army and Confederate officer, died recently near Fayetteville, at the age of 76 years.

GENERAL LEACH.—We are highly gratified to see the name of Gen. James Madison Leach as one of the Democratic State Electors at large. General Leach is one of the best campaigners in the State. He has always been successful when before the people, and the cause he espouses has, in his person, one of the hardest and most persistent workers to be found anywhere. Previous to the war, 1859, he defeated Gen. Scales, by a handsome majority; and after the late unpleasantness he defeated Gen. Scott, an able speaker and a strong man of the Republican party of that day. Later he defeated the most popular of the Radicals, Judge Settle, after the most exciting campaign on record. The Statesville Landmark relates the following anecdote of the campaign of 1859:

Leach and Scales were then the candidates for Congress in this district, and on one occasion met at Statesville in joint debate. Two farmers, neighbors, on a strong Whig, the other a devoted Democrat, rode to town together to hear the speeches. The Democrat had never heard Leach speak; the Whig had. The two returned home together, and after they had ridden some distance in silence, the Whig thus addressed his companion: "Well, colonel, what do you think of Leach?" "Ah!" returned the Democrat, after a moment's pause, thoughtfully, and with dejection, in his voice, "he's a jumping colt; if he can't break a root he'll jump it."

Gen. Leach says to-day "come boys, let's vote Jarvis and Hancock, and give them 40,000 majority in North Carolina."

The Candidates.

It is said by the Republicans that General Hancock has no civil record, and although undoubtedly a good soldier, has no experience as a statesman. The following from the Philadelphia Ledger, independent in politics, gives the best possible refutation to the above falsehood.

The Philadelphia Ledger is one of the widest circulated of the independent newspapers of the country. It has a leaning for the Republican side of most political questions, which adds additional value to the following article taken from its columns in regard to the Cincinnati nominees:

HANCOCK.

But it is not alone as a soldier that General Hancock has a history. After the war, and when that difficult problem of the care and restoration of the Southern States, which have been left without governments, had to be grappled with, he justly earned great distinction as an administrator of the laws over the large district of country covered by the States of Louisiana and Texas. What was to be done with these States, that had lost their condition, their privilege and rights as self-governing communities, had exercised the minds of statesmen like Thaddeus Stevens, Steward and Lincoln. But they had to be brought within the pale of the government and to Gen. Hancock was allotted the States above-mentioned, as the Carolinas to Gen. Meade. It was in this capacity that he won his reputation as a soldier—administering civil law, and gained at once the acknowledgement of the government and the complete restoration of peace to all sections.

Your life-long friend,
JOHN W. FORNEY."

Not satisfied with this he sent another telegram to Mr. Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, then at Cincinnati:

"I congratulate you, my dear old friend, on your great speech in favor of the living hero of Gettysburg—The Marat of Pennsylvania—whose nomination at Cincinnati for President will deliver this great Commonwealth from the terrible curse that has polluted its fair fame, destroyed the hope of its young men and enriched its insolent politicians. It will be welcome news to hundreds of thousands of Republicans who regard Grant's sacrifice at Chicago as the unspeakable ingratitude of the age, and it will consolidate North and South in the holy bonds of fraternal peace and prosperity."

THE PUBLIC DEBT.—The public debt statement of June, according to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury to-day, shows a reduction of $10,214,424.51. The reduction is much larger apparently than in reality due to the operations of this month. By an act of Congress June 2, 1879, $8,375,934 of the fund for the redemption of fractional currency was directed to be applied to the pension fund, on supposition that that amount of fractional currency had been destroyed and would never be presented for redemption, and now that amount is simply subtracted from the debt statement. Taking this out of the reduction, as it appears, and there is only left $1,835,490.51 as the actual debt reduction for the month of June.

Chicago, July 2.—A special from Quincy, Ills., to the Times says the most intense excitement prevails in the country inundated by the breaking of the Suy Levee. This embankment protected an extent of country seventy miles long and from five to twelve miles wide. Yesterday fully one-third of this area was under water. The crevass at Cincinnati landing is a half a mile wide and other breaks have occurred. Houses and barns swept away and crops destroyed.

—General Sherman, when asked by a reporter what he thought of General Hancock's nomination, replied that he did not have anything to do with politics; "but, if you will sit down," he added, "and write the best thing that can be put in language about General Hancock, as an officer and a gentleman, I will sign it without hesitation."

—Archibald H. Henderson, Esq.,

son of the late Judge Archibald Henderson, and father of John S. Henderson, Esq., died at Salisbury on Monday last.

—Gen. Theophilus H. Holmes,

well known as an old army and Confederate officer, died recently near

Fayetteville, at the age of 76 years.

—We give below the true statement relative to the connection of General Hancock with the execution of Mrs. Surratt, taken from the Philadelphia Times.

General Hancock was in command in the Valley when the country was thrown into excitement by the assassination of President Lincoln in 1865, and he was immediately summoned to Washington by President Johnson and assumed the military command at the capital.

It was in this way he was associated with the trial by the military court, and the subsequent execution, of the alleged conspirators, including Mrs. Surratt.

Much interest has been exhibited in this part of his service, and the prominence of his position has, in the minds of some ignorant people, made his connection with the execution of the prisoners more intimate than is true.

It must be remembered that he was in command of a force in and about the capital of about 100,000 men, having, practically, only the Secretary of War and the President as his superiors. With the details of the guarding and care of the prisoners he had nothing whatever to do.

They were confined in the Arsenal, and the commander there was General Hartranft, who took the position by order of the Secretary of War. A military commission, ordered by the President, tried the prisoners, found them guilty, condemned some of them to death, and the findings of the military court were approved by the President.

The execution had been ordered for the 8th day of July. On the 8th Messrs. Atkinson and Clampitt, the counsel of Mrs. Surratt, were before United States Justice Wylie and procured a writ of habeas corpus. This was served by the Marshal of the District on General Hancock at the military head of the division.

As was his duty he forwarded it to his superior, the President of the United States and the Commander-in-Chief. President Johnson at once issued the following proclamation:

EXECUTIVE ORDER,
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 7, '65.
To Major-General Hancock, Commander, Etc.

I, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, do hereby declare that the writ of habeas corpus has been heretofore suspended in such cases as this; and I do hereby expressly suspend this writ and direct that you proceed and execute the order heretofore given you upon the judgement of the military commission, and you will give this order in return to this writ.

This was endorsed on the writ and, accompanied by United States Attorney-General Speed, Gen. Hancock presented himself before Justice Wylie and made return to the writ. The execution took place the following day. General Hancock saw that the only hope for Mrs. Surratt lay in the power of her daughter to move the President's heart and gave her every facility in his power to gain access to the President. So great was his anxiety in regard to the looked for pardon or reprieve that he placed a line of mounted sentinels from the White House to the place of execution, that the words of grace if spoken at the last minute, should go surely and swiftly. But no such words were spoken.

Col. John W. Forney, an old Republican editor of large influence, says this special:

"GEN. HANCOCK.—I congratulate you on your nomination for President, and predict your election and the complete restoration of peace to all sections.

Your life-long friend,
JOHN W. FORNEY."

Not satisfied with this he sent another telegram to Mr. Daniel Dougherty, of Philadelphia, then at Cincinnati:

"I congratulate you, my dear old friend, on your great speech in favor of the living hero of Gettysburg—The Marat of Pennsylvania—whose nomination at Cincinnati for President will deliver this great Commonwealth from the terrible curse that has polluted its fair fame, destroyed the hope of its young men and enriched its insolent politicians. It will be welcome news to hundreds of thousands of Republicans who regard Grant's sacrifice at Chicago as the unspeakable ingratitude of the age, and it will consolidate North and South in the holy bonds of fraternal peace and prosperity."

THE PUBLIC DEBT.—The public debt statement of June, according to the report of the Secretary of the Treasury to-day, shows a reduction of $10,214,424.51. The reduction is much larger apparently than in reality due to the operations of this month. By an act of Congress June 2, 1879, $8,375,934 of the fund for the redemption of fractional currency was directed to be applied to the pension fund, on supposition that that amount of fractional currency had been destroyed and would never be presented for redemption, and now that amount is simply subtracted from the debt statement. Taking this out of the reduction, as it appears, and there is only left $1,835,490.51 as the actual debt reduction for the month of June.

—General Sherman, when asked by a reporter what he thought of General Hancock's nomination, replied that he did not have anything to do with politics; "but, if you will sit down," he added, "and write the best thing that can be put in language about General Hancock, as an officer and a gentleman, I will sign it without hesitation."

—Archibald H. Henderson, Esq.,

son of the late Judge Archibald Henderson, and father of John S. Henderson, Esq., died at Salisbury on Monday last.

—Gen. Theophilus H. Holmes,

well known as an old army and Confederate officer, died recently near

Fayetteville, at the age of 76 years.

GARFIELD'S RECORD.

A Short Summary of His Doings While in Congress.

Garfield's character is as dubious as his talents are unquestioned.

His hands are untidy and unclean, not by mere raimer but by the evidence and testimony of prominent Republicans, by the official record of Congress.

He took twenty shares of Credit Mobilier stock, that is twice as much as most of the other Senators and Representatives—and retained every penny of the enormous cash dividends though he had never paid out one penny for the stock—never paid for it except in votes.

He was a member of the Boss Shepherd District of Columbia ring. In one case he could not deny having received $50,000 for putting through, as chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, an enormous appropriation for the swindling Dredgolier pavement. Compelled to admit the receipt of the money, he tried to excuse himself by the assertion, under oath, that the money was a fee received as an attorney.

This led to the proof that he never uttered one word or wrote one syllable or did a single thing in the matter except to put through the appropriation, that he never had a case, never received a fee, never acted as an attorney in his life while at Washington. Precisely as in the case of Colfax, the attempted explanation made the thing a thousand times worse. It added to the proof of bribery.

He was a leader in the salary-grab, and again, unlike many other members, never returned the $4,000, the taking of which was so unanimously condemned by the people that the very next Congress repealed the law by an almost unanimous vote.

He voted for every one of the many jobs, land grants, subsidies to railroads, etc., that were granted in 1862.

He and Sherman and Stanley Mathews were the three Ohio friends of Mr. Hayes who went down to Louisiana and managed the returning board.

The electoral vote of that State was, in reality, not stolen by the returning board, but by Garfield and Sherman, who furnished them with the inspiration, the courage and the temptation to commit the crime.

The returning board rascals were only tools in the hands of Garfield and Sherman, who spoke, promised, and acted as the personal and immediate agent of R. B. Hayes.

Garfield made a speech of great power against the Electoral Commission bill, upon the sole ground that it compelled an investigation of the returning-board frauds, compelled to go behind the returns. But, the bill passed, Garfield became a member of the commission.

He took this oath: "I, James A. Garfield, do solemnly swear that I will impartially examine and consider all questions submitted to the commission of which I am a member, and a true judgement give thereon, agreeably to the Constitution and laws, to help me God." This oath Mr. Garfield also signed. Yet he voted at least a hundred times with the other seven Republicans against the very and only thing that the commission was created to do—to "examine and consider" the questions of fraud—voted that the commission had to be deaf, blind and dumb, could not go behind the returns and, in fact, could examine nothing, except to count in Hayes.

Garfield, though formerly professing to be a revenue reformer, turned out to be a servile tool of the Eastern protectionists. This present Congress failed to reduce some of the most unjust and oppressive duties largely through the efforts of Garfield, who as a member of the committee on Ways and Means protected the interests of the Eastern manufacturers.

Garfield's vote on the electoral commission counted in Hayes, after his voice had managed the returning board steal in Louisiana. His election would mean not only the complete popular endorsement of the

The People's Press.

THURSDAY, JULY 8, 1880.

LOCAL ITEMS.

HANDS WANTED.

Girls wishing work in a Cotton Factory should see or write to

F. & H. FRIES,
Salem, N. C.

CHANGE.—The Winston M. E. Sunday School excursion to Danville, will take place on Friday the 9th, instead of Thursday, as noticed in our last week's issue. The change was caused by failure to secure the necessary cars for Thursday.

The oats crop will be short. So say the farmers.

Postoffice Directory crowded out. Will appear next week.

Rev. J. T. Zorn left for Chapel Hill, on Tuesday evening.

New Moon yesterday, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Dog Days began on yesterday, 7th, and will end Friday, August 20th.

The Amateur Band realized $50 at their promenade concert Saturday night.

F. & H. Fries have begun digging the foundation for their new factory building.

Joseph Knaus is again at his post, ready to attend to the wants of his patrons.

Some young folks had a picnic at Harrison Reed's place, on Thursday of last week.

Several parties imagined Main street a race track on last Saturday. Too much brandy aboard.

Severe storms passed over portions of Stokes county on Tuesday and Thursday of last week.

Mrs. E. A. Vogler and daughters left on Monday to visit their daughter, Mrs. Jess Carter, at Madison.

One day last week, David Blum killed a very large snake of the copperhead species, in his cellar.

Tink has declared himself for Hancock and English, and says he never sets his triggers for nothing.

The blow we had one day last week uprooted one of the venerable old trees, on the creek bank, near the bridge.

Certain little boys should not set their older brothers such bad examples by smoking cigars on the streets.

Rejoiced was the little darkey who picked up 75 cents in the public square, Sunday morning after the promenade concert.

The old cistern in front of the Music hall, being no longer needed, the water has been cut off, and is being filled up.

Peaches were brought in last week, and $3.50 per bushel asked. The man who had them went up Main street trying to sell them.

Salem Hay Scales, noticed last week as undergoing a thorough repairing, are now in good order and ready for weighing hay, cattle, &c.

At the target shooting by Winston Light Infantry, on Monday, Robert Spencer, for the best shot, carried off the gold medal.

We are glad to see S. A. C. Everett, of Macon, Ga., in town on a visit to his parents and friends in Winston, looking well.

The members of the Amateur Band return their thanks to the ladies who so kindly assisted them at their promenade concert last Saturday night.

Thanks to Mrs. Church for specimens of the finest tomatoes we have seen this season. They were grown in Gardner Vogler's garden.

The first water melons this season, made their appearance last week. They were carted round by Tink, and sold by Ned Harris at 50 and 75 cents each.

James Reich has rented the part of the Shoe Factory building next to the Vogler Store building, for the purpose of opening a tin ware factory.

Our policeman had several arrests to make Saturday evening last. Too much enthusiasm by some over the proposed race and Fourth of July the cause.

The stray hen that was lurking about the public square last week is supposed to have come to town to look after some "spring chickens" brought in.

The races at Waughton, on Saturday, were mere trials, yet they attracted a large crowd of people. Some very creditable trotting was chronicled by the judges.

A colored boy ran around the new race course, half a mile, in three minutes, on Monday evening. He won the quarter put up, and invested it in ice cream to cool off.

The bucks, and their wives, and their sisters, and their cousins and their aunts, and several old grannies, visited the Mineral Spring in full force on last Sunday afternoon.

Sunday, the 4th, was the first anniversary of the death of old "Buck," but as Uncle Jake's mind is so occupied trying to solve why Grant wasn't nominated, we doubt if he thought of it.

The first crop of hay throughout this section of country is of an inferior grade. All except a few, higher meadows were several times overgrown, consequently most hay is dusty.

The Sunday School and members of New Friendship church are making efforts to raise money enough to buy an organ for the use of the Sunday School and church at that place.

We were shown an Irish potatoe, this year's growth, of the Early Rose variety, taken from H. S. Crist's garden, which measured seventeen inches in circumference one way and eight inches the other.

"Ah," exclaimed an old veteran on hearing the result of the Cincinnati Convention, "another chance to go for Hancock, I've won for him!" several times during the war, and shall now go for him again in November.

The arch over Tar river, on New Shallowford street, near F. & H. Fries' cotton and woolen mills, is nearing completion, and will be a substantial piece of work. Dr. Shaffner superintends the work.

We regret that our friend, C. T. Pfohl, accidentally hurt his hand in our office on last Friday afternoon, while watching the workings of one of our power presses.

The copartnership of Cooper & Hendricks, in the milling business, has been dissolved by mutual consent. W. J. Cooper being now the sole proprietor of the old Salem Mill.

On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

Oats, in Davidson, sown last fall, made a tolerably fair crop, but the Spring sowing is almost a failure, rust having damaged it badly, and much of it will never be cut. The same complaint in Forsyth.

Chlor Stewart, of Broadbay township, this county, is 93 years old, has never worn spectacles, knits, sews, spins, walks about and does house work. She suffers occasionally with a severe cough, otherwise her health is good.

Charles E. Shore and lady arrived on Thursday night last, on a visit to his parents, and on Friday night were served by Salem Band. Charley left again Sunday night, going by private conveyance to High Point. His lady will spend the summer with his parents.

See notice elsewhere of F. W. Melzer's Ice Cream. Mr. M. has been long and favorably known as a manufacturer of Ice Cream, and we know of nothing that will cool you off quicker this hot weather than a saucer of uncle Frank's imitable cream.

A party of some thirty ladies, gentlemen and children, under the care of our worthy Sheriff, Fogle, started for the mountains of Stokes, on Wednesday last. They will probably extend their tour to the mountains of Virginia. We wish them a pleasant trip.

Editors of PRESS:—I send enumeration from a distance, visited this place and Winston on Saturday last for the purpose of witnessing the celebration of the Fourth, but as there was no display of any kind some of them had a little fun anyhow, and left. To keep posted on such things, subscribe for the Press.

They had a lively time in Winston on last Saturday, a couple of "scrimmages," one shooting scrape, five or six runways, and at night the programme wound up with a "can" performance by a company of male and female tramps, who "lit" in the place, representing themselves as once belonging to Cole's circus.

Robert Gorrell, Bob Mosely, Nath. Stockton, and several others, are off on an extended trip through the mountains of Western N. C. We don't know how long they intend being gone, but we'll wager our bottom dime that uncle Bob has the boys back in time for the November election.

When eating oranges never throw the peel on the sidewalk. It is not only dangerous for pedestrians, but when a man steps on a piece and slides six or eight feet, not knowing what part of his anatomy is going to strike the ground, it makes him express himself in language too horrible.

A list of letters remaining in the Postoffice, at Salem, N. C., July 1, 1880:

Frank Alspaugh, John Davis, John Everett, (col.), G. W. Fulk, Shadrack Grogan, 2, Miss Salie C. Hester, Mrs. Lydia Kirk, Miss Addie Swain, Jeff Swain, George Willard, John Walls.

H. W. SHUPPEK.

Sunday School Centennial.

The Raikes Centennial Anniversary was celebrated in the Moravian Church on Saturday evening last. The church was crowded to its fullest extent. The programme published was observed, except that sickness prevented Revs. Brown and Page from delivering their addresses. Rev. E. Bondiholder, D. D., and Rev. F. H. Johnston discussed their subjects as well as their own. The lectures of these gentlemen were well given and full of suggestions valuable to teachers and scholars. The music was excellent. Rev. P. J. Carraway's address was an excellent production. It was a beautiful sight to see so many children of our two towns engaged in singing the praises of their Redeemer. May the Sunday School cause ever be near the hearts of all of us.

Republican County Convention.

The Republicans of Forsyth county assembled in Tise's hall, on Saturday last, to make arrangements for the campaign and elect delegates to the State Convention at Raleigh, and the Congressional District Convention. John Henry Mastin was Chairman, and W. H. Goselin and N. S. Wilson were elected Secretaries. It has long been known that there was a strong opposition element in the Republican party in this county against the Revenue King running the political machine of the county, and it cropped out distinctly on Saturday last, resulting in fistfights and abuse. The excitement ran high, and resulted in a compromise as to delegates. We wish every Democrat could have seen the wolf-like harmony of last Saturday's meeting. It really seemed as if the pack were ready to devour each other, result most devoutly to be hoped for during the Summer campaign. The Republicans evidently had the "rabies," and it was difficult to restore apparent harmony.

Commissioners' Court.

Court met Monday. Proceedings as follows:

Allowed J. P. & J. N. Apple to remove small liquors in Winston for 3 months, and for twelve months, if desired.

H. P. Slater and J. N. Anderson appointed Commissioners to let out the job of repairing the bridge across Mud Creek at the lower end of Bethania to the lowest bidder.

Sheriff authorized to grant license to S. H. Smith to retail malt liquors for 12 months.

N. A. Harper qualified as Deputy Sheriff.

H. Holder was authorized to examine Salem Bridge, and repair same where needed, and report to next meeting.

T. B. Best announced that Fogle Brothers were the lowest bidders for repairing Court-room and Clerk's office, the sum being $145; and $16 for out-buildings.

The following jurors were drawn for next Inferior Court:

Solomon Tie, W. G. Grubbs, E. A. Ebert, J. E. Sapp, Ransom Rose, J. T. Crumpler, J. A. Gray, Joshua Lincoln, James C. Clegg, W. R. Snider, William Sheets, F. A. Tudor, D. S. Ham, F. M. Marshall, J. S. Clegg, Wm. Rights, J. A. Shoush, C. O. Veste, Thornton Mull, N. Marshall, Elijah Hester, J. J. Linbeck, Benji Hampton, Eli Weavill, Cheyenne, Goo, H. Idol, A. A. Carter, H. Fulk, Francis Shore, Jacob Smith.

Mr. Cox was appointed as one of the Assessors at large for the county, in place of R. L. Cox, resigned. Appointment to take effect from date of R. L. Cox's resignation.

Wm. White authorized to paint before Court-House.

Sheriff settled with Board on Tuesday morning.

Tax lists to be revised on Monday next.

Jarvis and Hancock Club.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—On the evening of the 1st of July, the Hancock and Jarvis Club of Winston township held its second session in the Court-House. Hereafter it will hold its meetings in Brown's Opera-House, on Thursday evenings. It will be open at all times, so that every one may have access to the papers belonging to the Club.

C. B. West, Esq., was loudly called for, and responded with a stirring speech.

He gave a glowing description of the Cincinnati Convention, as seen by him, and said that it was a proud day for any Democrat to look upon that intelligent and dignified body, as the representatives of the party to which he belonged; and especially for a Southern Democrat, when he compared the Southern delegation of his party with the same delegation of the Republican party that met at Chicago, who were notoriously fickle, that they could be swayed to and from by the promise of reward.

He then drew a comparison between Hancock and Garfield:—How the one met the Southern soldier and disputed every inch of ground with him; how the other fell back before the fire of cannons with the drummer. How the other, the cheek that tramps have. Recently a number took up camp near an old farmer's house, and after begging for provisions, which the farmer kindly gave them, they went to the house after breaking up camp, and wanted to know if they could buy some whisky. They got no whisky, but instead a sound lecture from the old farmer for going about begging their bread when they had money to spend for whisky.

—Miss Lula Fries and Miss Lettie Patterson are on a visit to the mountains. Mr. A. E. Welfare and Theodore Butner are also among the mountains of Ashe. Dr. Shaffner's family and Miss Salie Shaffner started for Asheville on Monday. C. W. Vogler is also on a visit to Asheville. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hamilton are with relatives in Ashe county for the heated term. Miss Rose Mickey accompanies them. Mrs. R. L. Patterson, in Caldwell, for the season. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Pfohl are in Ashe county. Joseph Stockton and lady are in Asheville. F. E. Fries is off for the mountains.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—Miss Lula Fries and Miss Lettie Patterson are on a visit to the mountains. Mr. A. E. Welfare and Theodore Butner are also among the mountains of Ashe. Dr. Shaffner's family and Miss Salie Shaffner started for Asheville on Monday. C. W. Vogler is also on a visit to Asheville. Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hamilton are with relatives in Ashe county for the heated term. Miss Rose Mickey accompanies them. Mrs. R. L. Patterson, in Caldwell, for the season. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Pfohl are in Ashe county. Joseph Stockton and lady are in Asheville. F. E. Fries is off for the mountains.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

—On the 29th of June, a severe storm passed through parts of Davidson county, and in the vicinity of Midway, blew down much fencing, timber, &c. In Lick Skillet, it blew down Jackson Elmer's stable.

<p

She Was Right.

By C. H. THAYER.

She stands before her mirror, fair,
In girlish innocence and grace,
Preparing with ingenious touch
To heighten charms of form and face.
Her tresses, long and bright,
Her silken robes, long and bright,
For she securely intend,
To look her very best to-night.

She quickly plucks the gleaming strands,
She says, "He is sure to like her,
I wonder why he does not speak,
Then when he does, she'll say,
She's won in a bewitching way,
The tiny looks that o'er her move,
In her eyes, profusely.

A leaf had she now plucked,
Dies not, but by the time she gives
And the cut, the time-like gives
A sick and scrutinizing glance.

The pretty girl, so smiling, reveals
Her secret, and another secret,
Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Brisk steps are clapped on neck and brow,
The silken robe before unknown
Is laid, and the robe is laid down,
She seems so still and adored.
And then, no, no, I'll never tell
The little secrets beauty reveals,
To the world, in her own touch,
From which she leaves like the rose.

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Her hair was cut close to his head,
Leaving his huge ears in bold relief,
Wicked-looking eyes, and a brittle mouth,
Completed his general expression of ferocity.

Bed-time came, and I directed the man
To a room upstairs in the "parson's" department, not the "up-stairs" where I had said my brother was. Now that there was real danger, I was calm and reasoned, and I closed the door that led upstairs with my embroidery seis-ses, which happened to be in my pocket, so as to guard against surprise, and hurriedly collecting our silverware, carried it to mamma's room and hid it in the bed.
No one would have supposed the bed had been disturbed. I was elated at my ingenuity.

I then hunted up what few jewels the girls possessed, and placing them with what money I could find, in a box, I tied them in my pocket. After doing this, I stole down stairs, and removed my seis-ses from the door. These seisses were counted among my most valuable treasures. I had had them many years, and nothing could be lost to me.

I expected the man would only wait till he thought I and my vicious brother were asleep, and would then search the house for valuables, and finish by killing me. Only one plan for escape that I originated seemed feasible. I determined to wait till I heard my lodger in the room below, and then wrap my self in my shawl, and jump out of the window. I was not keeping well long; the peculiar squeak of the sitting-room door allowed me that it was time to go. Quietly I raised the window, and as the steps approached the stairs, I jumped to the ground. Fortunately there was a bed of lilies directly beneath the window, and they softened my fall. That there was danger of breaking my neck I had not thought. I was determined to escape from this deadly man.

It was dark as Egypt, the rain was pouring down in torrents, but this was nothing in comparison with the horror within the house.

Half a mile back of our house lived a friend of my brother's, Mr. Vincent. I resolved to go there. I ran along, stumbling against fences and falling into ditches, thinking I never knew such a long half mile. Finally I reached the house, and managed to tell my story. Several young men happened to have been delayed there by the storm, and headed by Henry Vincent, a young man of some twenty-two years, they prepared to capture my visitor.

I was eleven years old our folks tried to make me think it was too old to play with dolls. I feel as though my dolls were the only specimens of humanity to whom I confided this. To them I confided all my secrets and my manifold trials. They were attentive listeners—never interrupted me. There was Rosa, the very large one, there were so many of them I cannot describe them.

When I was eleven years old our folks tried to make me think it was too old to play with dolls. I feel as though my dolls were the only specimens of humanity to whom I confided this. To them I confided all my secrets and my manifold trials. They were attentive listeners—never interrupted me. There was Rosa, the very large one, there were
so many of them I cannot describe them.

This having the word "queer" attached to my name used to annoy me;
my dolls were the only specimens of humanity to whom I confided this. To them I confided all my secrets and my manifold trials. They were attentive listeners—never interrupted me. There was Rosa, the very large one, there were
so many of them I cannot describe them.

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Then gathering up her dainties,
She goes to bed, and—she goes!

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight, the fairest, in my view,
To the world, the fairest, in my view,
There I stopped, even to the foot
That gleamed, radiated from the rose,
She stands so still and adored.

Another she sighs and murmur low,
"I hope that he will speak to-night."

Enough, enough, content her,
A girl, like her, I could not see,
A sight,